The only options I did not get were navigation and parking pack. I have to start with the power train in this vehicle. The hp direct inject V6 is an absolute peach. Smooth, refined, and power all over the band. It's also very quiet, until you push it past rpm, then she starts to growl. It's a great noise for a Luxury V6. The tranny, a 6-speed automatic, is one of the best I've ever used. It's buttery smooth and knows where what gear it needs to be. I've never had issues with either. Always follow the factory maintenance guide and requirements for maintenence. The all-wheel drive is great. I live in Buffalo, NY, and if there is one thing people know about Buffalo, is that we get a lot of snow. It puts the power down well. This car is also incredibly comfortable. I owned a small econo-car previously, and my back would cry at trips longer than 45mins This car, no complaints at all. Very comfortable seats with way adjustability. I'm very big on nice interiors, and the interior of this car sold me on it. It's beautifully laid out, nice use of perforated leather, soft-touch plastics, and wood trim throughout. I got the panoramic moon roof as well, which is beautiful during the night, or soaking up the sun rays on cooler days. There are, however, creaks and rattles all over the cabin. It's a shame, but the car is also cheaper to own than foreign competitors, so it's expected to see corners cut in places. The only other complaint I have about the interior is outward visibility. The pillars are very thick. It hasn't been a huge problem, but noticeable. Exterior is subjective. I was never really a fan of the look, only because my little eyes can see cost-cutting corners shaved. But, it is a sharp looking, handsome design. I also opted for the 18" polished aluminum wheels and spoiler, which make the car look a little more upscale and aggressive, respectively, in my opinion. Driving the car had been very nice. Smooth over rough roads, good road manners, although the weight does tend to want to drag it around corners sometimes, great steering feel, and plenty of V6 power. Practicality is good, not great this is a luxury sedan after all. Cost of ownership has been low for luxury levels. Maybe I'm "lucky" or maybe I properly maintain my vehicle. Either way, outside of normal maintenance oil, tires, brakes, etc. Can't stress this enough. The car is a fantastic car, especially at the price you'll find them. But, it needs to have been properly maintained and taken care of. Read more. Read less. Sign Up. Coronavirus update: New contactless services to help keep you safe. Excellent experience. Will likely revisit in the future. Awful the posted pic is NOT the car on lot. I drove over an hour after calling to ask condition of car. I was told no damage they could tell. Car was banged up scuffed filthy all the cars on the lot were awful. Stay away from this place. The owner spoke with me and gave me additional information about the vehicle. He even took additional photos of the "bad" of the vehicle and offered to negotiate a different price point. Great experience considering I didn't end up purchasing the vehicle. Not pushy at all but very understanding. I would recommend Pioneers Auto Broker. If I'm ever in the market for another vehicle, I would contact them again:. Mary at Lewis Auto Sales is an honest, extremely knowledgeable and helpful salesperson. I look forward to working with her and the team due to their long-term commitment to Saab cars and owners. I did not get the vehicle but this seller was very understanding and the price was perfect. I just am unemployed right now and accidentally tapped the button to contact the owner. The whole situation was still amazing, and if I had the cash right now, I would totally have gotten the car from this owner. This is a bad dealer. He texted me, I was asleep. When I woke up, I texted him that I have found something cheaper. The person I met at the dealership was helpful but when I brought up the slight shaking when I drove the car with him in the car he acted like it was nothing so I decided not to buy. Premium motors was amazing! Responded very quickly, very kind. And a great buying experience! Highly recommend! I drove miles to purchase this car and it was trash! I was there for over 30 minutes and one salesman asked if I needed any help. I had just called and told them that I was 5 minutes away so that they could have the car ready. It was the worst experience and a dollar wasted trip. My son was very upset and said that he feels like he was catfished. A bait and switch. I would not recommend place. I rate them a ZERO!!!! This dealer was absolute crap. So they wanted us to pay with cash or open a whole other bank account in their town. The sales person was very knowledgeable and very nice and friendly like we knew each other for quiet some times and I will visit again when doing my car shopping thanks a lot guys at auto mart. I called them, and got the info and picture I needed to determine the car I was interested in. Unfortunately, I wasn't able to show up - since it was pretty distant to my location. Nonetheless, I am grateful for the info and timely response. On the inside, the CTS exchanges clean lines for a busy and flashy center stack. The CTS handles like a dream but is noticeably slower than competitors, even when equipped with its most powerful engine. That said, the car still feels lively and powerful enough to classify as a sport sedan. Sharp steering and a confident but comfortable ride help the Cadillac hold its own in a steeply competitive segment. Both the hp and hp engines are available with either a 6-speed manual or a 6-speed automatic transmission. The base engine, despite being less powerful, does not gain much on its more powerful counterpart in way of fuel economy. The lesser engine is rated at 18 city, 26 highway, and 21 combined, while the more powerful engine is rated at 17 city, 26 highway, 20 combined. Those numbers both change to 16 city, 25 highway, and 19 combined with a manual transmission. Wood, metal, stitched leather, and plastic all meet to create a number of funky angles and gaps throughout the cabin. Even so, the interior feels cohesive and well put-together. Cadillac bestowed the CTS with a lot of buttons and controls in the center stack, and every single one feels premium. The optional navigation system rises on a screen in the upper dash, and when lowered, it leaves a small display open for controls. Backseat passengers are not treated to the same flash and bold styling that the front-seat passengers see, but the rear cabin area is comfortable and uncluttered. The CTS comes with an audio memory system, which lets users upload CDs and store them on a hard drive in the car. The system can even record up to 60 minutes of over-the-air live audio. However, the car lacks Bluetooth, which means that cellphone connections are a no-no, though most dealers do offer an aftermarket Bluetooth upgrade. The navigation system integrates with XM radio traffic data to display real-time traffic flow info in metro areas. The system can rear upcoming street names and has a full database of points of interest to help guide the trip. Standard safety equipment includes four-wheel anti-lock disc brakes, traction control, electronic stability control, six airbags, and side curtain airbags for both rows. Adaptive headlights, which can turn up to 15 degrees in the direction of a curve, are optional. It's reliable enough but one issue I have with it is it is really hard on gas. It has a large engine, which requires a lot of gas to run. This is something I was not aware of when I bought the vehicle. But other than that it is a good car. Have had many issues. Have replaced 4 of 6 cylinders. Needs a new timing chain. Only has 90, miles on it. Looks sharp, but durability isn't good. Bought because it has all wheel drive, which is nice. Parts are of course expensive so take that in consideration. Including headlight bulbs. Had my 08 CTS 2yrs. Now just had to change battery, it was the original Delco! Old, really like this car fun to drive smooth as silk, plenty of power, took 2 trips to Conn. From Jersey just like going around the corner. Very comfortable car to drive. Good on gas mileage. It is made in the United States of America and one of the last. I was in love with my car the first time I saw it, and still am 11years later. Best car I ever bought!! I have only had my car for a year now. There have been no problems. I recently ran over a rabbit and the whole thing messed up. Bumper fell off. Not okay for how much I pay. As far as comfort, the front seat has plenty of space. The back seat on the other hand is so small. Very uncomfortable to travel. Great reliable vehicle that I really feel safe in. Great on gas and so far not many issues for being 11 years old. Only things that have come up have been basic maintenance as well as replacing the tire sensor. A friend also had one that she was in a nasty accident in and she walked away completely unharmed. This is definitely a car I would recommend or invest in going forward with the later models. I really love my vehicle. It has more modern functions then most cars from that year. It lets me know when one of the tires are low and which one. It not only tells you engine problem with the light but actually tell you what the problem is. The car handles like a dream very smooth ride. No one believes it's 11 years old. I haven't had a single problem with the car. It is very comfortable to be in for long or short rides. The seats are heated for colder days. Air conditioning and heat everyone can control their own comfort. Stereo sounds awesome came with Bose speakers and has 5 disc CD player. I haven't had any problems at all with her. I am the second owner. And I did check car facts and she hasn't been in any accidents before I bought her. When I am ready for a new car I believe I will be buying another Cadillac. They are very dependable. The cts is a very reliable and convenient care. Fast and fuel efficient. Daily driver. I have only had 1 problem. I had to change the battery and spark plugs. I am still on the original set of tires and brakes. I might need to change the timing belt at k miles. The paint still looks great and the interior is perfect. I have a Cadillac cts its silver. It's a great family car plenty of space. It's runs good the only problem I've had is with the over heating other than that it's a wonderful smooth ride. It has close to thousand miles and it's up to date with oil changes and I do tune up every year to ensure it runs the very best. The breaks are new as well as the tires. I bought my car in I love the style of the car. I have had it for over 7 years now and it has been very reliable. I have only experienced a few issues with it. I have had to replace the battery once and the daytime headlights a few times. The only thing I do not love about this car is that is has a very rough ride when driving around town. It is very smooth on The freeway but very bumpy around town. I wish it had a smoother ride. After 10 years there are a lot of costly repairs. But it's a great looking car and runs well after it has a repair done to it. I would recommend the cts to anyone looking for a reliable and safe vehicle that also packs a punch. I own a Cadillac cts v6 direct-injection. I love my car I has thousand miles on it never had a problem. Interesting enough this is the only car I have owned that you do not have to rotate the tires they all wear the same always. Only parts I had to buy for is driver's and passenger disc brake rotors. And driver's side door lock solenoid. I have never had any other problems. Oh and a tune-up spark plugs air filter that is it. When I purchase the vehicle had miles on it. Overall it has great gas mileage and is low maintenance. It is safe and family friendly with extra airbags and also anti lock brakes. It also features a sunroof for greater pleasure. There is large trunk space and also storage in the back of the car. Overall it is in excellent shape. Caddys are spectacular! Why drive fast when you can lounge in your boat? The vehicle is actually really cool and has much room. The car drives smoothly but it takes a lot of gas to fill up the tank. This car is my favorite car it's my everyday driver. A bit a lot and it does run it to problems but it's still reliable. This car is very fast, dependable, quiet and still drives good. I service it at the miles requested and keep the synthetic oil changed. It has very few problems and Cadillac stands behind their vehicles with great customer service. My car only has 51k miles on it and drives like brand new. I would not hesitate to purchase another Cadillac in the future. This is a smooth riding car, with quick acceleration and very airtight. I do not use the sunroof, and would not purchase one in the future. It has a great sound system and very attractive body style. It was Motor Trend car of the year when I purchased it. I test drove the new SUV and would consider purchasing it in the future. It drove well too. The car is a family car. It is very comfortable. Sunroof that goes all the way back. Sport mode and cruise control are applied. The body of the car is very attractive. The car is an eye-catcher. At first I didn't like it but the car feels like it is flying in the air when it drives. It is good on gas as well. The cts is very smooth riding but it is very low to the ground and very difficult to get in. It is even harder to get in the back seat. It has a great trunk with lots of room. Because of the year this car was made it does not have a phone Bluetooth ability. No problems really love the vehicle. Bought a year ago, good on gas, bought with good tires it was used had under 98 thousands miles on motor. My favorite car that I have ever owned car is black, all leather inside has a sunroof. All over best car I have ever owned. I haven't had any problems other than when I bought it I didn't notice it didn't have aux. It averages probably mph. It is pretty reliable, it is an everyday driver. It has pretty comfortable leather seats which wood grain interior. It has heated seats which is pretty great too. I like my Cadillac cts but its not very sturdy, as a lot of problems happen with it. The air doesn't always work good depending on the weather out which I have looked up and a lot of other users have had the same issue. The car itself is a very comfortable drive. Change Year. Amazingly, each new product coming down the GM pipeline these days seems to signal that the once-defining beancounter bureaucracy has finally been replaced by a genuine desire to create top-notch products. And this latest CTS is the most comprehensively integrated vehicle we've seen yet. Since the CTS spent extensive development time on the tortuous Quite a few, he said, but all of them from the passenger seat. That's because he hasn't acquired GM's top driving certification and therefore is not allowed to drive at the German track. Meanwhile, a first-timer from Car and Driver gets to lap freely-what was that about a bureaucracy? Just so you know, Mr. Kotarak, your car is quite adept. The '08 CTS retains a That extra width means not only more handling prowess but much improved proportions as well. There were times when the first-gen CTS could look a bit awkward; it seemed tall and narrow from behind and not that desirable in profile. But there's no bad view of the new car, from its attention-grabbing front end and better-integrated vertical headlights and taillights to its muscular fender flares. The redesigned CTS still might not stand a chance to be as responsive as the smaller and much lighter-by about pounds-BMW i, but our favorite sports sedan has nothing on the Caddy's aggressive looks. Tops on the CTS's mechanical upgrade list is a hp, 3. The old base engine, a hp, 2. All-wheel drive is offered for the first time, but only with an automatic transmission. In relaxed driving, the new V-6 is smooth and quite muted, as Cadillac has attacked the noise problem in just about every wayâ€"triple door seals, sound-deadening covers on the engine and high-pressure fuel pump, and numerous other acoustical treatments. But push a little harder, and the engine starts to sing at about rpm, pulling enthusiastically to the rpm redline. Our hp manual ran 0 to 60 mph in 5. That's quick enough to run with a Mercedes C or BMW i, but a twin-turbo i reaches 60 mph a full second quicker. Initially, it was surprising that the new Caddy is just a 10th quicker through the quarter than its big-brother STS

with the same engine but with the six-speed automatic tranny until we plopped our CTS onto the scales: pounds, no thanks to the nearly pound penalty of the optional sunroof. That's more than the outgoing model and just 68 shy of the five-inch-longer STS. The suspension retains the same basic aluminum-intensive control-arm-front and multilink-rear suspension, with slightly modified geometry, but it only took the three characters "PS2"â€"as in Michelin Pilot Sport PS2 tiresâ€"to clue us in to how serious Cadillac is about the sporting nature of the new CTS. This is GM's first time using these summer-only, super-performance street tiresâ€"arguably better tires than the Goodyears the Corvette wearsâ€"which are generally used on all-out sports cars like the Porsche and Cayman. All three suspension choices use the same spring rates, but the FE3 option includes larger brakes and anti-roll bars as well as revised dampers. The others, FE1 and FE2, ride on all-season tires. We spent most of our three days in Germany with the sportiest FE3 package, and the most impressive thing about the '08 CTS is its ride-and-handling balance. Tightly controlled body movements keep it buttoned down, and the rear-drive CTS's ride never feels harsh, either. The upsize brakes could use more of an initial bite, but they're strong, with predictable, linear response, and in our exploits they never yielded even once to fade. The huge brake-cooling ducts up front certainly deserve some of the credit. On the street, our initial impression is that the CTS is more comfortable than a Sport-package-equipped BMW 3-series or Infiniti G35 without giving up much ultimate performance, although rain during our testing day kept us from verifying Cadillac's skidpad claim of 0. The FE2 car we briefly drove didn't feel much softer, but over an undulating stretch of unlimited autobahn, it moved around enough to make us want the stiffer setup. The upgraded rack-and-pinion steering is linear and now offers more feedback, although its weighting is on the light side of perfection. We appreciated the friendly on-center behavior at triple-digit speeds, but the off-center response could be quicker. A revised version of the Aisin six-speed manual carries on with modified ratios to alleviate a previously large gap between second and third gears. But even with a new shift linkage for shorter throws, the manual isn't nearly as fluid as those from BMW. The CTS's ho-hum shift action teams with an abruptly engaging clutch and a slightly too high center console to make the row-your-own option less than satisfying. Add a drink in the cup holder directly behind the shifter to that combo, and you're constantly whacking it with your elbow. Suddenly, BMW's dash-mounted cup holders make a lot of sense. The new well-behaved six-speed automaticâ€"it's no wonder BMW buys this GM gearboxâ€"will likely be the more popular choice anyway. It offers smooth shifts when you want them, but thump the throttle, and it gives a prompt multigear kickdown. Slide the shifter into the sport setting, and it quickly gets bold, dutifully holding gearsâ€"even when the engine is just rpm shy of redlineâ€"and aggressively downshifting under braking. Comfortable seats with surprising thigh and upper-back supportâ€"especially considering the limited way adjustabilityâ€"will likely please the masses, but during exuberant driving, we wished for more lateral support. How about an optional sport seat, Cadillac? Possibly the most dramatic improvement to the CTS is the upscale and coherently flowing interior, complete with classy materials and top-notch fit and finish. Cadillac's least-expensive car certainly doesn't feel that way, and it upstages the '08 Mercedes C-class. It also doesn't hurt that even with a steeply raked rear window, the CTS offers a much larger and usable back seat the smallest Caddy is similar in size to a 5-series BMW than those in the smaller luxury sedans it competes with price-wise. The infotainment system is also new and includes a trick feature: a TiVo-like function that allows you to skip forward and backward through AM, FM, or XM radio. Don't want to miss a song?  stores up to 60 minutes' worth. The CTS has all the other up-to-date electronic goodies: an optional speaker Bose 5. Cadillac says it will soon add Bluetooth hands-free calling as well, shying away from having OnStar as the only option. The first-gen CTS exceeded sales expectations, moving 60, units in its best year, although BMW sold twice as many 3-series in But with more style, power, and features, we think the new CTSâ€"and the new GM, for that matterâ€"is destined to be even more of a winner.
